Thomas Schoenberger pal Ed Butowsky had "extensive contacts" in military and intelligence

Updated: Aug 21, 2020

OPINION AND EDITORIAL

New court documents filed in the Southern District of New York reveal that Thomas Schoenberger side-kick Edward Butowsky has "significant" contacts within military, law enforcement and intelligence communities.

the documents being related to newsgathering. Plaintiffs move to compel documents in the custodial files of Zimmerman, Housley, and Wilson, all of whom were employed as “professional journalists,” N.Y. Civ. Rights Law § 79-h(a)(6), at Fox News during the relevant time period. Exs. 1–2. Zimmerman testified in an attached declaration that she “relied on Ed Butowsky as a source of background information and leads and for access to sources that he uncovered,” as he had “knowledgeable contacts within the military, law enforcement, and intelligence communities.” Ex. 1. She also testified that he introduced her and Housley to those contacts so they could “receive information from them related to the stories we were investigating.” Id. In short, the communications with and about Butowsky were undertaken “in the course of gathering news for publication.” See von Bulow, 811 F.2d at 144. Meanwhile, it has been confirmed that Thomas Schoenberger side-kick Deep NSA, aka Korean BBQ, is the subject of a Naval Criminal Investigative Service probe (NCIS) into alleged unauthorized access of military installations in the Washington, D.C. area with her ex-boyfriend George Webb (YouTube journalist).

Deep NSA, aka Corean BBQ, was staying in the same Capitol Heights, Maryland hotel with George Webb when the beaten body of Jenny "Task Force" Moore was discovered August 13, 2018. The corpse was found in a room apparently down the hallway from a room occupied by the love birds (Korean BBQ and George Webb). It is believed that Corean BBQ and George Webb had traveled to Annapolis, possibly to the U.S. Naval Academy the morning of 8/13/2018 when the body of Jen Moore was discovered.

Deep NSA was apparently life long friends with "Krisitna Julia".

Rumors indicate that Jenny Moore and George Webb swapped hotel rooms either Thursday or Friday prior to the grizzly discovery of the battered and bruised corpse of Jenny Moore.

Re: Rich v. Fox News Network, LLC, No. 18-cv-2223

Dear Judge Netburn:

Pending before the Court is a dispute over whether defendant Fox News Network, LLC must produce documents from the files of journalists Malia Zimmerman, Adam Housley, and Greg Wilson that hit on the search terms “Butowsky” and “Wheeler” but that do not relate to the Rich family or the news reports at issue in this case. Even if Plaintiffs have met their burden of establishing that these documents are relevant under Rule 26, their motion to compel should be denied, because they cannot overcome the much higher barriers erected by New York’s powerful press shield law and related federal privileges for newsgathering. The New York shield law is often described as “the strongest in the nation,” Holmes v. Winter, 3 N.E.3d 694, 700 (N.Y. 2013), and requires the party seeking discovery to make “a clear and specific showing” that the information contained in the documents is “critical or necessary” to maintenance of the claims and “not available from any alternative source,” N.Y. Civ. Rights Law § 79-h(c). The standard is met only where the discovery is so integral to the claim that it “virtually rises or falls with the admission or exclusion of the proffered evidence.” Baker v. Goldman Sachs & Co., 669 F.3d 105, 108 (2d Cir. 2012). Plaintiffs cannot possibly satisfy that standard here.

Fox News Has Carried Its Burden of Showing the Privilege Applies

Fox News has carried its burden of demonstrating that the qualified privilege attaches to the documents concerning Ed Butowsky—indeed, Plaintiffs’ own theory of relevance centers on the documents being related to newsgathering. Plaintiffs move to compel documents in the custodial files of Zimmerman, Housley, and Wilson, all of whom were employed as “professional journalists,” N.Y. Civ. Rights Law § 79-h(a)(6), at Fox News during the relevant time period. Exs. 1–2. Zimmerman testified in an attached declaration that she “relied on Ed Butowsky as a source of background information and leads and for access to sources that he uncovered,” as he had “knowledgeable contacts within the military, law enforcement, and intelligence communities.” Ex. 1. She also testified that he introduced her and Housley to those contacts so they could “receive information from them related to the stories we were investigating.” Id. In short, the communications with and about Butowsky were undertaken “in the course of gathering news for publication.” See von Bulow, 811 F.2d at 144. Greg Wilson was her editor at FoxNews.com.

1. “Critical or Necessary”

Plaintiffs argue that these documents would be helpful in prosecuting their intentional infliction claim because Butowsky’s involvement in other “controversial” news stories “bears on the ‘outrageousness’ of Fox’s conduct.” Dkt. No. 152, p. 1. But Plaintiffs have no serious argument that their claim “virtually rises or falls,” Baker, 669 F.3d at 108, with these documents, none of which have anything to do with the Rich family or the news reports at issue—let alone the leak of DNC emails. The Second Circuit permitted Plaintiffs’ claim to proceed into discovery based on an alleged “campaign of emotional torture” that was “specifically targeted at Joel and Mary.” Rich v. Fox News Network, LLC, 939 F.3d 112, 123, 125 (2d Cir. 2019) (emphasis added). This claim cannot possibly rise or fall on the basis of documents relating to other news stories unrelated to the Riches.

Plaintiffs’ position fares no better with respect to the conspiracy claim. “Under New York law, civil conspiracy is not an independent tort,” but is instead a mechanism for connecting each defendant to an otherwise actionable injury. Senior Health Ins. Co. of Pa. v. Beechwood Re Ltd., 345 F.Supp.3d 515, 531 (S.D.N.Y. 2018). Plaintiffs, in other words, must show a conspiracy to commit the specific tort at issue—intentional infliction of emotional distress specifically targeted

Secret DEFANGO e-mails may be behind 60 day judicial freeze by federal judge (ooppsie)

Updated: Aug 1, 2020

OPINION AND EDITORIAL

New intrigue has erupted on the Internet over the 60-day (sixty) freeze of the Robert David Steele (RDS) v. Jason Goodman lawsuit in Richmond, Virginia. After Jason Goodman accused RDS in court documents of creating false evidence with side-kick Manuel Chavez, III, suddenly the lawsuit was placed in the 60-day deep freeze. This happened after Goodman turned over to the federal court all the e-mail communications given to him by Manuel Chavez, III, aka DEFANGO.

In support of this scheme, Mr. Biss allegedly paid an individual, Manuel Chavez III, to “produce false evidence against [Goodman] and to supply this evidence to [Mr.] Biss for use in this instant legal matter.” (Id.) Goodman claims that Chavez “approached [Goodman] volunteering to provide emails,” several of which Goodman attaches to the Motion to Disqualify. (Id. 10.) One of these emails reveals a communication between Plaintiff Steele and Chavez, with Steele telling Chavez “email to [Mr. B]iss by tomorrow 0900 eastern detailing what you have collected that connects Goodman to Brock and Arnon Milchan. [F]eel free to tell him you want to support my case in return for a percentage.”⁶ (Mot. Disqualify Ex. C “October 22, 2017 Email,” ECF No. 165-3.)

THE BIG LIE—FALSE AND MISLEADING TESTIMONY BY A CIVIL LITIGANT DOES HAVE SERIOUS CONSEQUENCES

² Some jurisdictions have gone so far as to criminally prosecute individuals for obstructing the discovery process. In United States v. Lundwall, 1 F. Supp. 2d 249 (S.D.N.Y. 1998), for example, the government indicted two former Texaco employees who allegedly withheld and later destroyed corporate documents sought by the plaintiff in a race discrimination action against the company, and charged them with violating 18 U.S.C. §1503, which makes it a federal offense to corruptly obstruct or impede the due administration of justice, and with conspiracy to obstruct justice in violation of 18 U.S.C. §371. The defendants moved to dismiss the indictment, claiming, in part, that §1503 is not available to punish persons for civil discovery violations. Instead, the defendants argued that the sanctions provided for in Fed. R. Civ. P. 37 were more than adequate to punish them for their alleged discovery abuses and provided ample remedies to the injured plaintiff. The Southern District of New York disagreed. The court held that, even though there is a paucity of authority adequate to punish them for their alleged discovery abuses and provided ample remedies to the injured plaintiff. The Southern District of New York disagreed. The court held that, even though there is a paucity of authority on the issue, §1503 plainly encompassed the defendants' alleged misconduct (i.e., the deliberate concealment and destruction of relevant documents), because it was certain to impede or, at least, attempt to impede justice in the underlying civil action. The court also rejected the defendants' argument regarding the adequacy of Rule 37 sanctions, noting that the indictments did not involve misconduct by a party to the civil action, but rather by individuals who acted independent of their employer and its counsel. In any event, the court held that "a court [is free] to impose civil and criminal sanctions in connection with the same contumacious behavior."

I wasn't sure if you were aware but regarding your comments on Zionism being targeted, some recent info linking I found interesting:

<https://www.haaretz.com/israel-news/1.810768>

Netanyahu possibly indicted on receiving bribes from Arnon Milchan. This name is important and one I think you might already be familiar with. In case you are not...

Arnon Milchan was responsible for smuggling the Nuclear Triggers to Israel through his company. A company Netanyahu happened to work for at one time. Arnon Milchan is admittedly Mossad, so open in fact it is published in a new biography and also Haaretz.

Arnon Milchan was involved in this assumedly during JFK presidency. I am sure you are familiar that JFK had a serious issue with Israel having Nuclear weapons going so far as to threaten cutting off aid to Israel completely. He demanded several tours of their nuclear energy & what they called a "text tile factory." He was duped of course and they cut off the floor containing nuclear weapons.

What makes this interesting is a few months later Ben Gurion resigns over the JFK nuclear fiasco. Shortly after JFK is assassinated. What is REALLY interesting to me is finding out Arnon Milchan funded/produced the Oliver Stone JFK assassination movie. This acted as propaganda against the CIA pushing all blame onto the agency. I find this reprehensible considering Arnon being the smuggler of nuclear triggers to Israel from Pennsylvania when JFK would not allow it to continue and is assassinated for this fact. Leading up to Arnon himself being bold enough to make the anti CIA propaganda film not even mentioning their own role.

It goes FARTHER than that with Milchan. He produced an episode of a film just a few months before the Twin Towers were hit by planes. This episode featured remote control planes hitting buildings. This blows my mind. Not only did he produce such months before the Twin Towers are hit but he also produced yet ANOTHER film of planes targeting a building called "medusa."

Cynthia,

I have committed to Trevor funding for a press call next week that can be you alone if you wish. I am very happy to report that Manny has accepted my apology and understands that I know I made a big mess and am eager to do whatever it takes to make it right. He will let me know what he wants in that department. It did however remind me that we had talked about Manny being on the RV live streaming your tour and I am so glad to be reminded of his skills and his following and the possibility of his advancing our #UNRIG message. Manny is a genius in both visual artistry and coding, and it could be that he could be helpful in creating a Steemit alternative to MeetUp that you could use to manage the powercells while generating funding. A good conversation to have sometime.

I hope you will agree to do a joint VicLib interview with me in our respective #UNRIG polo shirts, and then do a press call next week but if you prefer to do your own interview at your own time and if you prefer to do the press call alone, without me, no problem.

I want to do whatever it takes to be right with all of you.

From where I sit, if you were to announce that you are returning permanently to the USA in January to fight the good fight, and that UNRIG is pivoting toward seeking to unite Independents, Greens, Libertarians and other small parties to not only champion election reform but also elect a whole new Congress, I believe that would be a marvelous way to end the year. Whatever you want to do I will support.

Apologies for any missing social niceties in the above. I wanted to get this message out right away.

Very respectfully,
Robert

I'm sorry

Manny,

I offer you a heart-felt apology for my lack of inter-personal skills. Despite the best of intentions -- what I was trying to do was demonstrate distance between CIA, me, and you -- and had I been allowed to finish I believe I would have done that -- the actual outcome -- and the public perception of my words are as you correctly interpreted them: insulting.

I deeply regret my unintentional insult to you. It was absolutely not intended that way. As my email to you immediately after the show ended, I accepted your slamming the door on me and offered you the promised links to my work along with an opening toward following your lead on developing a Steemit solution under your control that I would support.

If you are able to discern my sincerity in this email -- a sincerity that I reinforce by respecting your right to publish this email or read it on video -- it is my hope that you will understand that my lack of inter-personal skills in the moment in no way diminish my regard for your knowledge or your platform. You are a force of nature and I would not have accepted your invitation to interview me had I not thought highly of you.

I still think highly of you. Although you over-reacted in my view and I was appalled that you would carry your anger against me over to Lift the Veil, the original sin is mine and for this I apologize most sincerely.

Very respectfully,
Robert Steele

I have two problems on the RV tour:

01 repair shop is backlogged, trying to get them to take it in before 1 November

02 Cynthia is sulking after I refused to agree to her creating her own company and controlling all the money and marginalizing me. Not sure I can count on her,

I haven't seen all your videos (yet), and therefore you might have said this, and I missed it, but what is your opinion of Trevor FitzGibbon?

My best friend of 35-years (since 10th grade), met him in early 2018. She was immediately targeted for harassment thereafter. One of the primary ppl involved in targeting her was Defango. Trevor played the unsuspecting victim which I always thought odd since I figured out (immediately) the two of them were connected, and are or were, friends.

WellTraveledFox, or whatever her name is, also went after my friend (Kristina is her name).

Around the same time, I started dating George Webb, in May 2018, and in June, Kristina's father's personal data and bank accounts were hacked, likely by this group (he's very wealthy). Btw, he's also a decades-long FBI asset, knew Reagan personally, was in the Bush 43 White House, and her mother was one of Laura Bush's social secretaries. Not sure if any of that has anything to do w the targeting, and is the only reason I mention it.

Kristina received a fake FBI phone call, also in June 2018, proclaiming to say they were investigating ME, which of course freaked her out .. imo, as it was designed to do. She

Corean Elizabeth Stoughton

Hanover, Maryland

Dear Madam,

Thank you for your cellular phone text messages that threaten litigation against me for some ambiguous and vague reason.

Since you have now threatened litigation you are required to safely archive and store all electronic communications exchanged between yourself and the following individuals for the previous two years:

- o Jason Goodman
- o Thomas Schoenberger
- o George Webb Sweigert

The requirement for the safe storage of electronic communication artifacts (text messages, e-mail messages, blog post, twitter messages, etc.) is now your duty to preserve.

Apparently, you have reviewed the e-mail messages of George Webb Sweigert in his e-mail accounts without his knowledge. If you have copies of any and all such e-mail content, that should be preserved as well.

Note: Under Maryland law, interception of communications is only authorized if consent of all parties to the interception is obtained. Schmerling v. Injured Workers' Ins. Fund, 368 Md. 434, 448 (Md. 2002). Section 10-402 of the Maryland Wiretapping and Electronic Surveillance Act, Md.Cts. & Jud.Proc.Code Ann, 10-401 et. seq., provides that except as otherwise specifically provided in § 10-402 it is unlawful for any person to willfully intercept, endeavor to intercept, or procure any other person to intercept or endeavor to intercept, any wire, oral, or electronic communication.

As a courtesy to you, I have included a few law enforcement agencies that may have an interest in your relationship with the foregoing mentioned individuals or the possible unauthorized e-mail intercept of George Webb Sweigert's e-mail messages.

Warm regards,

Evidence Collection Team

D. George Sweigert

Maatje Benassi, a US Army reservist and mother of two, has become the target of conspiracy theorists who falsely place her at the beginning of the coronavirus pandemic, saying she brought the disease to China.

The false claims are spreading across YouTube every day, so far racking up hundreds of thousands of apparent views, and have been embraced by Chinese Communist Party media. Despite never having tested positive for the coronavirus or experienced symptoms, Benassi and her husband are now subjects of discussion on Chinese social media about the outbreak, including among accounts that are known drivers of large-scale coordinated activities by their followers.

The claims have turned their lives upside down. The couple say their home address has been posted online and that, before they shut down their accounts, their social media inboxes were overrun with messages from believers of the conspiracy.

"It's like waking up from a bad dream going into a nightmare day after day," Maatje Benassi told CNN Business in an exclusive interview, the first time she has spoken publicly since being smeared online.

As the coronavirus has spread around the world, so has misinformation about the disease. Technology giants have touted the steps they are taking to combat coronavirus misinformation, but these efforts have failed to help the Benassis. The family's suffering highlights the potential for blatant falsehoods to be rewarded and amplified by social media platforms. It also serves as a powerful reminder that misinformation online, however wild or obviously untrue it may seem, can have real and lasting consequences offline.

Maajte and her husband Matt are still active in their government jobs. Maajte is a civilian employee at the US Army's Fort Belvoir in Virginia where she works as a security officer. Matt, a retired Air Force officer, is a civilian employee with the Air Force at the Pentagon.

Despite working for the US government, the couple are experiencing the same feelings of helplessness familiar to others who have been the target of harassment and misinformation. "I want everybody to stop harassing me, because this is cyberbullying to me and it's gone way out of hand," Maajte said while fighting back tears.

Matt has tried to get the videos taken down from YouTube and to prevent their spread online. The couple said they contacted an attorney, who told them there was little that could be done, and local police, who told them much the same.

Origins of a coronavirus conspiracy theory

Conspiracy theories are not dissimilar to viruses, in that they evolve and mutate to spread and survive. Before Maatje Benassi became the main protagonist in this conspiracy, variations had circulated online for months.

In the early weeks of the coronavirus, conspiracy theorists began claiming, without evidence, that it was a US biological weapon. Later one member of the Chinese government publicly promoted the notion that the US military brought the virus to China. US Defense Secretary Mark Esper said it was "completely ridiculous and it's irresponsible" for someone speaking on behalf of the Chinese government to promote such a claim.

It wasn't until March, months after the first reported coronavirus cases in China, that conspiracy theorists turned their focus to Maatje Benassi. The baseless theory began with her participation in October in the Military World Games, essentially the military Olympics, which was hosted by Wuhan, the Chinese city where the coronavirus outbreak began last year.

Maatje Benassi competed in the cycling competition there, suffering an accident on the final lap that left her with a fractured rib and a concussion. Despite the crash, Benassi still finished the race, but it turned out to be the start of something worse. While hundreds of athletes from the US military took part in the games, Maatje Benassi was plucked out of the group and given a starring role in the conspiracy theory.

Perhaps the most prominent cheerleader of the idea that Benassi had a role in the imaginary plot to infect the world is George Webb, a prolific 59-year-old American misinformation peddler. Webb has for years regularly streamed hours of diatribe live on YouTube, where he has amassed more than 27 million views and almost 100,000 followers.

In 2017, CNN revealed how Webb was part of a trio of conspiracy theorists that pushed a false rumor about a cargo ship with a "dirty bomb" that was set to arrive at the Port of Charleston in South Carolina. The bomb never materialized, but the claims did lead to parts of the port -- one of the biggest in America -- being shut down for a time as a safety precaution.

Until recently, Webb said, his YouTube videos included advertisements -- meaning the platform, which is owned by Google, was making money from Webb's misinformation, as was Webb himself.

Webb even claimed that the Italian DJ Benny Benassi, whose 2002 song "Satisfaction" became a worldwide sensation, had the coronavirus and that he, along with Maatje and Matt Benassi, were part of a Benassi plot connected to the virus. (Benny told CNN Business he has never met Maatje and Matt, and they said that as far as they know, they are not related. Benny pointed out that Benassi is a very common last name in Italy.)

Benny Benassi told CNN Business he has not been diagnosed with the coronavirus. Like artists around the world, he canceled his concerts because of social distancing and travel restrictions. (Webb previously claimed the DJ is Dutch, he is not.)

In a phone interview with CNN Business on Thursday, which he livestreamed to his followers on YouTube, Webb offered no substantive evidence to support his claims about the Benassis and said he considered himself an "investigative reporter," not a conspiracy theorist.

He also said that YouTube recently stopped running ads on his videos after he began talking about the coronavirus. Webb said he had normally made a few hundred dollars a month directly from YouTube.

YouTube confirmed to CNN that it was not currently running ads on Webb's channel, but it declined to say whether ads appeared there in the past or provide details on how much money his channel may have made. A company spokesperson said YouTube was committed to promoting accurate information about the coronavirus. The company removed some threatening comments about the Benassis that had been posted under Webb's videos when asked about them by CNN Business. YouTube also said it had removed some videos posted by Webb in the past.

False theories online spark real world concerns

While the allegations about the Benassis may be wildly untrue, the threats they face and the fear they feel are very real.

Matt Benassi said he fears this could "turn into another Pizzagate," referencing another baseless conspiracy theory that claimed a pedophilia ring that somehow involved Hillary Clinton, among others, was operating out of a Washington DC pizzeria. The fringe theory didn't receive much mainstream attention until a man showed up at the pizzeria in late 2016 and fired an assault weapon, saying he was there to investigate "Pizzagate."

Maatje's husband Matt says the family are afraid for their lives. (Heather Fulbright / CNN)

"It's really hard to hold him [Webb] accountable," Matt Benassi said. "Law enforcement will tell you that there's nothing that we can do about it because we have free speech in this country. Then they say, 'Go talk to a civil attorney,' so we did. We talked to an attorney. You quickly realize that for folks like us, it's just too expensive to litigate something like this. We get no recourse from law enforcement. We get no recourse from the courts."

Matt Benassi said he has complained to YouTube but even when the company does take videos down it can take days for it to do so. By that time, a video can go viral, and the damage is done. Worse still: videos Webb has posted to YouTube that are removed are often re-uploaded to the platform.

In China, the YouTube videos attacking the Benassis are uploaded to popular platforms there such as WeChat, Weibo, and Xigua Video and are translated into Chinese, according to an analysis by Keenan Chen, a researcher at First Draft, a non-profit that researches disinformation.

Matt and Maatje Benassi both work for the US Military. (Heather Fulbright / CNN)

The Benassis' experience is unfortunately not unique, said Danielle Citron, a professor of law at Boston University School of Law and a MacArthur Fellow who studies online harassment. Faced with "cyber mobs," as Citron describes them, law enforcement often can't or won't investigate.

As for the likes of YouTube, Citron said the law has to change: "Right now, they're totally immune from legal liability under federal law. And so they can just walk away."

Whatever happens next, "the damage is done," according to Maatje Benassi. "I know it [will] never be the same. Every time you're going to Google my name, it will pop up as patient zero."

This went viral, as Chinese state-run media picked up the conspiracy and demanded my wife's medical information. Because of these lies, we've been defamed, harassed and threatened since late March.

What protects us and the other countless victims in the Information Age from baseless accusations like this? Very little, if anything.

Today, social media companies are protected under Section 230 of the Communications Decency Act, which says they can't be held responsible for almost everything that's posted on their platforms. That means online harassment, defamation and cyberbullying can pretty much run rampant on these platforms. Congress needs to amend Section 230 immediately so that companies like Facebook, YouTube and Twitter must legally be required to moderate hate speech and defamation and make sure it is no longer tolerated.

Matt and Maatje Benassi pose for a portrait on Wednesday, April 22. Maatje, a mother of two and US Army reservist, has become the target of conspiracy theorists who falsely claim she was coronavirus patient zero.

As things stand now, harassers know they can attack their victims with little to no consequences. In our case, local and federal law enforcement told us that from a criminal law perspective, they couldn't do anything about the harassment or death threats directed at us.

Over this past year, our harasser has posted a plethora of videos to multiple YouTube channels accusing us of spreading the coronavirus to China, and many of his followers have re-posted these to other social media sites. Dailymotion and Vimeo took immediate action and removed the videos once they were notified. YouTube eventually removed the videos and even removed our harasser's channel, but that was three months after we first reported the defamation. And even today, we routinely have to report re-uploaded videos and request they be removed from YouTube. Facebook typically removes the content once it's specifically reported, but the original video continues to appear, along with posts that spread disinformation about us. Twitter has taken down some tweets that contain the video and/or misinformation, but most of them remain. Our harasser retracted his initial claim and added a disclaimer to his videos stating he was fed bad information, but then continued to spread other lies about us.

With little help from social media platforms, victims are left with only one recourse: civil litigation against the person or group posting the content. And this recourse is prohibitively expensive and out-of-reach for the average American. Civil attorneys are reluctant to take these cases on a contingency basis — meaning an attorney works for free unless a judgment is awarded in the victim's favor — because many of these harassers have limited assets. And litigation is also extremely expensive. A simple cease-and-desist letter sent by our attorney to our harasser was $1,700, and to write that letter we had to put up a $2,500 retainer. My attorney told us that initiating a civil lawsuit would take an additional $10,000 retainer and upwards of $125,000 in total costs. What average American family has that amount of cash on hand? We certainly don't, so just like many others whom the justice system has failed, we are forced to crowdfund our legal expenses through hope and a GoFundMe campaign. Is this what innocent Americans have to do to get justice? There has to be a better way.

Matt Benassi poses for a portrait on Wednesday, April 22.

If Section 230 wasn't written as it is today, victims of harassment, defamation and cyberbullying could hold social media companies accountable for what they publish, just like traditional media companies. And with the correct wording, these companies would be required to more actively police and remove any harassing/defaming content. And if they didn't, then attorneys would be more willing to take on contingency cases since social media companies have deeper pockets than harassers do — which is better for potential settlements.

Defenders of Section 230 say the law protects free speech and shouldn't be amended. And while it does protect our First Amendment rights, at some point victims' rights need to be protected as well.

My family and I believe in freedom of speech. We've served in the Navy, Army and Air Force as active duty, reserve and civilian members. I'm not suggesting we limit or suppress legitimate discourse. Rather, it's about everyday people being able to hold individuals accountable when they've harassed, defamed and cyberbullied us.

Exclusive: She's been falsely accused of starting the pandemic. Her life has been turned upside down

Recently it seems that our government has taken notice of the problems with Section 230, as bills to reform the law have been introduced in both the House and Senate. And even the FCC has weighed in, saying it would clarify its meaning. But will these moves do enough to help victims, or is this designed to only support one political party's current agenda? The answer remains to be seen.

It's time to amend Section 230 to hold social media companies liable for the content on their platforms. Write your representatives and senators to demand action as, you too, are just one social media post away from a nightmare. My family became victims — let's make sure your family doesn't become a victim, too.

Matthew Benassi is organizing this fundraiser.

We are Maatje and Matt Benassi, a US military family and earlier this year, my wife and I became victims of a conspiracy theory that went viral on social media and it almost ruined our lives. We need your help to bring a civil lawsuit against our harasser to get justice and stop him from doing this to other innocent families.

The harasser who promoted the lies -- a man who has a history of spreading misinformation and defaming innocent Americans -- claimed we were conspirators in a twisted Deep State plot to spread the coronavirus to China. This went viral, as Chinese state-run media picked up the conspiracy and demanded my wife's medical information. Because of these lies, we've been defamed, harassed and threatened since late March.

We've tried a number of options to avert a civil defamation lawsuit against these conspirators. Initially we hoped they would just stop spreading lies -- they didn't. We interviewed with a major news organization (CNN video) in hopes that they would get the message that we weren't involved -- they continued. We removed hundreds of social media videos and posts to limit the spread of lies about us -- they persisted. We've worked with social media companies to terminate their accounts -- they wrote books. We worked with Amazon to remove the books and we hired an attorney to send a cease and desist letter -- they're planning a movie. We feel our only option left is a civil lawsuit and unfortunately, we've found out that justice is very expensive in America.

Our simple cease-and-desist letter sent by our attorney to our harasser was $1,700, and to write that letter we had to put up a $2,500 retainer. My attorney told us that initiating a civil lawsuit would take an additional $10,000 retainer and upwards of $125,000 in total costs. Recently, we spoke with an individual who successfully won a similar harassment suit and his attorney fees were over $300,000.

Any help is truly appreciated and we can't thank you enough for taking the time to consider donating to us.

Thank you, Maatje & Matt Benassi

100% of this fund will support legal fees associated with bringing a civil defamation lawsuit against multiple conspiracy theorists/harassers who continue to propagate the lie that we are in-part responsible for ongoing Coronavirus pandemic.

Any funds not used to support our family's associated legal fees will be donated to the HONR Network ; their mission is to fight on-line hate and harassment.

Friends, as we alluded to a few weeks ago. At this time we don't have a funding path to proceed with civil litigation against George Webb. However, we are working with a law enforcement agency to hopefully bring criminal on-line harassment charges against him. Recently, we've had some success in petitioning Patreon to remove several harassing/defaming posts/books about us and they decided to terminate their association with him which severed his major funding source. Also, we continue to work with the HONR Network to remove social media content that harasses and defames us. Also, as we stated when we started this GoFundMe campaign, "any funds not used to support our family's associated legal fees will be donated to the HONR Network ; their mission is to fight on-line hate and harassment". As of today, we've paid 100% of our own legal fees and donated the entire balance from this GoFundMe campaign, $2,695 to the HONR Network.

In closing, we want to thank you all so much for your support and please know we will continue our fight until the lies stop and Section 230 is amended to protect victims of on-line harassment.

Thank you, Matt and Maatje

“[Plaintiff] Webb's allegations were broadcast on "Crowdsourcing the Truth," a conspiracy theory YouTube channel with a relatively modest 11,000 subscribers. Two other people appeared on-screen with Webb, all remote of one another -- Webb said he was in Ohio. Throughout, the trio read and responded to live comments from their audience -- which reached 2,000 viewers at some points, according to one of the hosts.”

The Strange Case of The Groundhog Loop of the “Man-In-The-Middle Attacker”, David Hawkins

Posted on February 2, 2019

The Movie Groundhog Day (1993): a TV weatherman who is covering Groundhog Day is caught in a time loop, repeatedly reliving the same day.

It is Groundhog Day in the United States of America, and here I am pondering the time loops of David Hawkins and Jason Goodman, as they relive the same scenario over and over again. So forgive me if I interject a few thoughts of my own into their speculative view of reality.

The one who answered our question about the start of Spring 2019

So, back in 2017 I visited my family in Scotland. As I traveled around, many strangers asked me where I came from. When I said, “Mississippi”, the unanimous response was, “You don’t sound like you’re from Mississippi!!”.

If you have ever been to the sparse world of rural Scotland, you will understand why I wondered how the Scots even knew that Mississippi existed, let alone what accents are associated with this deep south state. When I was checking in at the Edinburgh airport to return home, I was interviewed by a security specialist, in part because I don’t sound like I am from Mississippi. The questioning got more and more detailed about where I claimed I lived, even asking what types of shrubs I had planted in my garden.

REPORT THIS AD

Now the reason that I don’t sound like I am from Mississippi is that I was born in Seattle into a family that had roots in Iowa and Nebraska. My mother was born into an impoverished family with eleven children, and she went to work at age 13 as a live in servant for a wealthy family. Thus she decided at an early age that one way out of her servitude, was to learn to speak perfect English like the upper class.

The man with the fake British accent

The topic for today's article regards David Hawkins, a man who considers himself to be the Sherlock Holmes of the Modern World. Now one of the things I have wondered about him is why he speaks with a fake British accent. You reply in surprise, "Fake accent! Isn't he British, after all?"

I am not sure why, but I remain unconvinced about his autobiography....let's see why I stand with arms folded, staring at this marvel of a man.

David Hawkins

I watch numerous British TV murder mysteries, which my husband checks out from the local library. I find it amusing when a male British actor fakes an American accent. It is almost always a Texas, arrogant good-ol-boy, accent. Years ago when I was in England, a young waitress, after finding out that we lived in Texas, wanted to know if we had a ranch like JR on the show Dallas. We all have our preconceptions of what others are like.

REPORT THIS AD

Likewise, if you ask an American male to imitate a British accent, what comes out is an upper class, snobbish, very droll form of speech; you know, exactly how David Hawkins presents himself. His demeanor meets the American conception of what a Brit ought to be—Sherlock Holmes, an air of being above us, familiar with history and the classics...but is he really who he says he is?

Hawkins is an expert in all things, or so he claims, including British Spy craft. He promotes the quaint style of the Man-in-the-Middle Attack found in English history, where a letter had been intercepted before it reached the recipient, and altered with a post script to frame the sender to look like they were intending to assassinate an unsuspecting target. Although he speaks in the third person about such matters, I propose that a primary example of the Man-in-the Middle Attacker in the present time frame, is actually David Hawkins, himself.

Is David Hawkins going to pull a Man-In-The-Middle Attack on his latest unsuspecting host?

BIOS, Bios, bios....

There are numerous bios on the internet on David Hawkins. There is a short bio on abeldanger.org dated January 4, 2010 which states, "David Hawkins, Forensic Economist at Hawks CAFE Vancouver, B. C. Canada Tel: 604 542 0891 Abel Danger White House Yahoo Group Hawks CAFE Yahoo Group Focus: Forensic Economics for Disaster Analysis and Virtual-Reality Prototyping David Hawkins offers keynote speeches, workshops or consultancy on the projects below. Academic First Class Honours Degree in Mechanical Engineering. Cambridge University Diploma in Industrial Management Cambridge."

And then there is the bio written April 28, 2011, for the Vote David Hawkins (Independent) South Surrey-White Rock-Cloverdale political campaign in British Columbia. Written by the poet himself, he declared to potential voters: "David Hawkins, Forensic Economist (Sherlock Holmes of the Modern World), has been a passionate and compassionate leader with integrity all of his life- even as a child he showed empathy with all forms of life, even pebbles at the bottom of the stream which he felt didn't have a view. In large projects such as Oil Rig Blowout Safety (ORBS), small projects such as keeping a parking lot clean or personal relationships, he stays true to his heart. Working in the Middle East, Africa and many other countries, he became widely respected for his management skills and vision always bringing out talent and genius in EVERYONE. After a career, long in adventure and experience, David shows no sign of slowing down or his optimism waning and he is confident he can clean up military-procurement fraud in Canada to "Stand On Guard for Thee'."

REPORT THIS AD

Yeah, right. Is a pebble a form of life? It appears that the voters remained unmoved by this poetic bio of David Hawkins, and elected to office a less dreamy candidate.

The Sherlock Holmes of the Modern World, always analyzing the mysteries of life around him.

Now here is the bio which Coast2Coast with George Noory offered around 2006, and remains untouched by both left and right-brained men:

“David Hawkins is a full member of the Scholars for 9/11 Truth. A graduate of Cambridge University, he is the former coordinator of Artificial Intelligence and geo-science research at Schlumberger, and the inventor in 1989 of a toolkit for virtual-reality prototyping. He is a world authority on the use of applied mathematics, thermodynamics and deductive logic to analyze violent crimes and identify the weapons, opportunities and motives of the perpetrators.”

Right below this bio, a book written by a David R. Hawkins is linked to an Amazon.com page for Power Vs. Force: The Hidden Determinants of Human Behavior. Now what Woo-woo genius thought that these two entirely different men sharing a similar name, were identical? One was a mechanical engineer, and the other was a psychiatrist. And then there is that great gulf in their ages.

The bio of the author of "Power Vs Force" is obviously not the same person as Coast2Coast's guest, David Hawkins. How is it that this false attribution has not been corrected in thirteen years? David Hawkins: Forensic Economist 911 blog has an interview up with David Hawkins, the man who was kicked out of the “Scholars” for 9/11 “Truth” for accusing Jim Fetzer of being involved in the 9/11 plot, and thereby accomplishing the rare feat of actually making Fetzer look sane by comparison. I have never quite figured what his qualifications are, but he points out that he is a “forensic economist”, rather than a “forensic accountant”. The distinction as far as I can tell means that he gets to propose his theories without having to use any actual numbers or transactions.

Hawkins then goes on to propose an incredible 9/11 plot involving in one way or another (take a deep breath) former CIA director John Deutch, the Chinese People’s Liberation Army, the Mob, Noam Chomsky, the Boeing Company, Frank Carlucci, James Baker, the Carlyle Group, George Soros, Osama bin Laden (yes him), the Prime Minister of Canada Paul Martin, Bill Clinton, Hillary Clinton, Saddam Hussein, the Teamsters, and Colonel Sanders before he went ↑ up. OK, I made up that last one.

How the plot actually worked, I am still not quite sure. It is rather long and rambling, described alternatively as a war game, a numbers racket (the Paul Newman movie “The Sting” is mentioned several times), an insurance scam, a hedge fund scam and an arbitrage system.

They also carried out the same type of attack on New Orleans with hurricane Katrina.

Unbelievable...

for 9/11 Truth group?

In a Loose Change Forum Discussion group, a post dated October 12, 2006 and presumably submitted by David Hawkins using his Hawks Cafe handle, documented several letters. One of those was written by David Hawkins, in part explaining, “I put these issues of a perceived conflict of interest in possible payments by the Teacher’s private equity groups to Professor Jim Fetzer, co-founder of the Scholars for 9/11 Truth, where until a few days ago I was a full member. As a recently retired member of the Teachers’ Pension fund, Mr. Fetzer became extremely defensive. When I continued to demand an explanation for his perceived conflict of interest he threw me out of the society which he had invited me to join about six months ago as a full member. Mr. Fetzer’s decision to remove me as a full member of S9/11T denies myself and my former fellow members opportunities to share research not just into the 9/11 murders but also the private equity frauds which appear to provide a financial motive for the murders.” Hawkins continues, “I am now alleging that the Scholars for 9/11 Truth is not only in a perceived conflict of interest with respect to the Teachers pension fund and its private equity groups, it has in fact been hired, with Mr. Fetzer as a founder, to run and manipulate an online forum and divert attention away from the Teachers’ pivotal role in the 9/11 frauds.”

An email dated October 8, 2006 from Jim Fetzer to David Hawkins states, “On the basis of numerous complaints about your saturation of the forum with speculations that verge on lunacy, I am revoking your membership in st911.org. I have refrained until now because you were making me the focus of your ongoing attacks for which you appear to have nothing but the flimsiest basis. I can assure you there is nothing the least bit unusual about my retirement in relation to TIAA/CREF. I have never received a nickel from them apart from the normal accretion of earned interest on my investments. However, it has now become apparent that your use of the forum to promote your views goes beyond the pale...”.

An unsigned email is also documented in this Discussion group post, written to Jim and Steve, saying, “It is my opinion that the forum is now being saturated by the unsubstantiated theories of David Hawkins to such an extent that the environment for everyone else is suffering. I’ve had my suspicions about DH for a while but it was never certain. Now I am concerned that he is knowingly turning the forum into one big debate about him and his theories...As I see, the main reasons to doubt the honest intentions of DH are these:

1. He is apparently a smart man, with qualifications and past papers. But why can’t a smart man organize his research, and why would he feel it, feel it necessary to start multiple threads when one or two would suffice.
2. It is hard to find any actual evidence in his jumbled work, and when asked to provide it he either ignores the request or answers with more speculations.
3. He makes countless accusations about Jim or about the group as a whole being compromised, and yet he does not feel he needs to dissociate himself from these problems. If he was genuine, he would not stay in a group that he felt was tainted and not beneficial to him.
4. He has tried to label other topics as distractions, or implied that they are a waste of time and that everyone should be focusing on his theories instead.”

This discussion post was titled Teachers Private Equity Hired Scholars 9/11t? by HawksCAFE, which is David Hawkins’ signature handle. At the end of the email which I just quoted excerpts from, there is a note saying, “[DH-I presume this above is an emanation from a poster boy ‘newtonnjd’ at the online forum].”

David Hawkins had been working alongside Field McConnell at Abel Danger, but more recently can be viewed promoting his theories in weekly broadcasts on Jason Goodman’s Crowdsourcing the Truth YouTube Channel. I have not been following his SERCO theories closely, and who can? Even the host, Jason Goodman, is having trouble grasping the 12 dimensions of Hawkins’ speculations.

But I do note that Hawkins had accused Field McConnell’s sister of being involved in some sort of conspiratorial enterprises involving Serco, or some such thing. This is similar in pattern to the strange connection he created between Jim Fetzer to the fallen Twin Towers disaster on September 11, 2001. More recently he attempted to develop the off the wall theory connecting the patent filed by Dave Sweigert's father to the Jon Benet Ramsey murder.

If you read the four points noted by the member of the Scholars for 9/11 Truth group regarding the tactics of David Hawkins, it is apparent that Hawkins likes to position himself as the Man-in-the Middle for purposes of setting up an attack against a target in close vicinity to himself.

Strangely, he is now positioned as a friend of Jason Goodman, who goes alongside Goodman to use his theories to attack Dave Sweigert. I shall probably address this positioning in further detail in another article; it is after all, Groundhog Day where it becomes difficult to escape that time loop which David Hawkins and Jason Goodman relive their speculations over and over.

In the meantime, let it sink in that David Hawkins IS most likely an example of the MAN-IN-THE MIDDLE ATTACKER.

Field McConnell's Flirtation With Paper Terrorism Tactics

Posted on February 18, 2019

Field McConnell, retired Delta Airlines pilot and retired USAF & F16 pilot

Whenever I research the topic of the Sovereign Citizen Movement, I often run into familiar names, such as Field McConnell of Abel Danger or Robert David Steele, who have associated themselves with the pseudo-legal philosophy of the fake Alaskan “judge” Anna Von Reitz and the Victurus Libertas website who are “unveiling the Freedom Revolution”. About two and a half years ago, Field McConnell had interviewed Anna Von Reitz in a September 15, 2016 Abel Danger video. And when I wrote a January 19, 2018 article, The Context, The Whole Context, and Nothing But the Context?, which discussed who was promoting the website Victurus Libertas, I noted that Field McConnell’s name was mentioned in the membership fees Gold Level- Insider Engagement as shown below:

MEMBERSHIP FEES: THE DOOR TO INSIDER ENGAGEMENT (something Ex-Con Tax Defier, former IRS Agent, Sherry Peel Jackson knows all about)

On the VL website which Angie heads as the Editor-in-chief, a page on Membership Levels provides a door to their world of secret insider sources. The Basic Membership is $2 per month to support their efforts to “bring the truth forward for all to see while exposing corruption”. This level gives the member “access to ALL worldwide news stories, be included in the weekly newsletter to stay updated on the website, as well as the VL Channel and you will have first access to EXCLUSIVE interviews from our CREDIBLE INSIDE SOURCES before anyone else.”

The Gold Membership is $5 per month which gives the Basic package plus “In addition, you will have access to 1-HIGHLY EXCLUSIVE interview per month, in which YOU will ask questions of a POLITICAL EXPERT, such as Robert David Steele, Field McConnell or possibly even Ron Paul. We will have these HIGHLY EXCLUSIVE interviews set up each month....Your name will be used when we present the questions. It will be just like you are interacting directly (with) the expert!”

Victurus Libertas also had interviewed the fake Alaskan judge Anna Von Reitz, and was selling products associated with Sherry Peel Jackson, a former IRS agent who went to jail for 4 years as a Tax Protestor. So by being an inside political expert enticement for the Gold patrons of the VL website, Field McConnell is by inference also supporting the Sovereign Citizen philosophy this website promotes.

[As an aside, I had also written on Robert David Steele’s association with Sovereign Citizen concepts in this September 16, 2018 article, THE OATH Above All Oaths of Robert David Steele, Chief Counsel for the International Tribunal For Natural Justice.]

REPORT THIS AD

Field McConnell has loosely attempted to engage the American court system for his purposes as far back as 2007, when he filed amateurish handwritten complaints in the U. S. District Court-District of North Dakota. The first lawsuit, Field McConnell vs. Boeing Company and Air Line Pilots Association was filed February 27, 2007 link:[field mcconnell boeing alpa 2007], and the second, Field McConnell, David Hawkins and 98 fellow plaintiffs vs. Global Guardians listed in “Preamble” was filed May 1, 2007 link: [field mcconnell global guardians lawsuit]. Both lawsuits failed for lack of prosecution, as apparently the plaintiff(s) never served the defendants.

In 2016, Field McConnell was involved in divorce proceedings in Wisconsin. We are going to look at certain aspects of this case, as he attempted to make use of several sovereign citizen paper terrorist tactics. The two documents under discussion in today’s post can be located here: [Field McConnell affidavit of truth 2016] and [Field McConnell divorce 2016].

First, in viewing these documents, I am not going to be addressing who is right and who is wrong as far as this dispute concerns a private divorce judgment; however, it needs to be noted that a dispute arose because the Petitioner, Alison McConnell, had asserted that Field McConnell had not made certain maintenance payments, real estate tax payments, and provided proof of home loan payments or homestead insurance payments. The attorneys for Alison McConnell filed a Notice of Motion and Motion for Divorce Judgment, Contempt Findings, and Further Relief with the Pierce County, Wisconsin Clerk of Circuit Court on March 1, 2016.

IS FIELD McCONNELL A TARGETED INDIVIDUAL?

In response, the Abeldanger.org website displays a document dated March 3, 2016, written by Field McConnell titled, Wisconsin Law Firm Ignorant of SEC Tracer #2640220 Implicates County Officials.

REPORT THIS AD

In the above referenced document, 27 statements are laid out. #5 explains that Field McConnell had been “targeted by a ‘weaponized IRS’ beginning in December of 2014, and that “The targeting could only have been initiated by my sibling Kristine Marcy, and the person for whom she created a passport in 1994 utilizing the National Visa Center controlled by Serco, a British corporation.”

#6 refers to the IRS as a private corporation who “has threatened to steal or cause harm to my property after I advised them on 22 May, 2015 that I was revoking my election to participate in their fraud.” Thus it appears that the IRS probably is viewing Field McConnell as a potential Tax Protestor, which could lead to serious consequences, if that should be the case.

#8 states that “On 16 October, 2015 I became a Lien Claimant of an international commercial lien. As a commercial instrument it has an S. E. C. Tracer Number of #2640220.” You can read about this sovereign citizen commercial lien in this pdf taken from the Anna Von Reitz website. link: [sec tracer 2640220]. To understand what some of the consequences, such as incarceration, are for the fraudulent use of such liens, read this article at pseudolaw.com , Is filing a UCC commercial lien a good way to enforce rights?

#10 explains that Field McConnell asked Alison to become familiar with “An American Affidavit of Probable Cause” written by Judge Anna Maria Riezinger. Alison did not become familiar.” This is one of several names which Anna Von Reitz uses in promoting her fraudulent schemes. For background information on this fake judge, the YouTube channel Virgo Triad has several videos which can be seen at this link: Fake “Judge” Anna Von Reitz.

THE AFFIDAVIT OF TRUTH DATED JUNE 28, 2016

In this document written by Field McConnell, 20 statements are made. [Field McConnell affidavit of truth 2016]

REPORT THIS AD

#4 says, “The Plaintiff in this fraudulent divorce proceeding has claimed ignorance of my duties as Global Operations Director for Abel Danger Global Private Intelligence Agency. To help the Court understand the Truth, I submit these 5 items of my efforts to enhance the safety of global travelers in time frame 4 December, 2006 until present day, 28 June, 2016. The Abel Danger Global Private Intelligence Agency will this day, 28 June 2016, be posting a Threat Warning regarding an aviation threat to Hillary Clinton.”

Field McConnell likes to wear many hats. He claims to be the Global Operations Director for Abel Danger Global Private Intelligence Agency.

After reading several pages which follow, I also claim ignorance of his duties. So Abel Danger is a Global Private Intelligence Agency?

That title encompasses a rather grandiose objective. However, if one looks into sovereign citizen "agencies" which are created by various persons who consider themselves as above the law and anti-government, it is not all that unusual. It is not wise to laugh out loud at such pretensive titles, as I found out when I critiqued another global sovereign citizen. They responded by putting out an international notice of protest against my article.

#7 is Field McConnell's "Lawful Notice to all Bar Registrants" which begins, "Hear ye, Hear ye, Hear ye, I am the Natural Man, and I am calling out your soul to hold you accountable for the many crimes you may have committed against me." The lengthy lecture which follows as well as the rest of this document is straight out of the Sovereign Citizen playbook.

Google Paper Terrorism

REPORT THIS AD

There are numerous individuals who have attempted to use sovereign citizen "legal" instruments who found themselves convicted and incarcerated for fraud. Most persons who attempt to use these types of legal claims in civil or criminal lawsuits are cited at minimum for promoting frivolous arguments.

If you are interested in what this pseudo-legal maneuvering is all about, please read the links provided in this article, which are a starting point in understanding this form of paper terrorism against the courts and government institutions. Increasingly, people who have degrees in higher education, or are highly skilled, are turning to these fraudulent legal schemes to escape personal property or tax issues in their life, without reflection on what the real life consequences are for fraud or failure to pay taxes, etc. Please don't become one of these, who later regret their actions when it is too late.

Intelligence Report from Field McConnell and David Hawkins as of Aug. 25, 2010

Our guests describe how Crown Agents Sisters employed a man-in-the-middle attack on the SBA and City and Guilds Livery Cos. to commit insurance fraud on 9/11.

Many topics are covered in today's broadcast, including;

- How the City of London financed the 1941 bombing of Pearl Harbor.
- How Kristine Marcy (Field's sister) and Vicky Pryce used their respective positions as SBA Chief Operating Officer and KPMG Consulting Chief Economist to set up the Twin Towers bordereaux fraud on the RSA Insurance Group.
- How the Crown Agents use Jamie Gorelick to sanitize and hide important crime evidence, such as in the case of 9/11 and the BP oil spill.
- Allegations that Branch Davidian cult leader David Koresh had a sexual relationship with a much older woman named Lois Roden and that pedophilia was actively practiced at the Waco compound prior to the 1993 massacre.
- Evidence that Crown Agents helped place Lynne Cheney, Dick Cheney's wife, on the board of directors of Lockheed from 1994-2001 to help Norman Mineta (Transportation Secretary under Presidents Clinton and George W. Bush) develop man-in-the-middle attacks that sabotaged Allied military operations in Kosovo, Iraq and Afghanistan.

To get up to speed quickly about what Field and David are investigating, watch these videos.
